HEPLIES TO HEMPHILL OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

He charged that Mr. Hemphill had introduced sectionalism into the discussion, and that it was not safe to follow the decussion, and that it was not safe to follow the flory leader; but the following of South Carolina's lead had made much trouble once before it this country, and that while not apology was ever made for our then act, that it would and could not be considered as untrue to the cause we then expoused to say we wated no more of it, and that his (Hemphill's) course would inevitably lead to nitification in 1890 instead of accession in 1890, that there were too many sad recollections of that sad counict for us to rom any more danger.

Judge Waddill grow warm in replying to Mr. Hemphill as to ruling the South on yesterday, and with suphasis said that he (demphill) had overloased the white Republicans of the South, and that for 75,000 of them in Virginia he desired to intorm him that they, too, were in their land and were their fathers come, and that their him day of the purpose either to drive the Republicans out or to rule them by torce that their blood would never turn back in their weins; if it was his purpose either to drive the Republicans out or to rule them by torce that their blood would never turn back in their general substitute last drop should have been shed.

MAHONE'S MEETING JULT STH.

Through Colonel Asa Rogers, the secretary, General Mahone has called a meeting of the Republican State Committee of Virginia, which is to be held at Chamberlin's Hotel, in the city, on the evening of July Sth. It had been called for the El of July, but was postponed until the Sth instant. Evidently Mahone wants to have his fittle hear in Washington, where things can be fixed up just as he wants them, with no interference from the meet who might swoop down on him if he were to have the meeting at Petersburg or Richmond. The old man proposes to rule the rocat, and is still boss of the party, he thinks.
